DELEGATE SCOTT LINGAMFELTER.

He Fought For Our Country.
Now He's Serving Us in Richmond.

THE REAGAN REVOLUTION

People often ask how and why a 28 year Army veteran got interested in political office. It's an easy answer: Ronald Reagan. Ronald Reagan is my hero and mentor and the leader I most admire. Our country would be a different and darker place without his leadership. He taught us to believe in the simple idea of the greatness of America, that there are no problems too big to overcome and that a strong America is the antidote to tyranny all over the world. Courage, faith and convictions made it possible.

I, too, still believe we can make it a "shining city on a hill."

- Scott Lingamfelter

Over three decades and four continents with the U.S. Army, Shelley and I have learned a lot about service, hard work, values, discipline and respect. Serving as your delegate is another opportunity to serve the families of Virginia and the principles of limited government, personal responsibility and enduring freedom.

My standard of service will continue to be principled leadership and "promises made, promises kept." I hope I've earned your trust and respectfully ask for your vote on Tuesday.
